Case Study - 2 to 6 12.50

Directions: Read the short passage below and answer the questions that follow.

The study of history has its own convictions and many benefits. To name a few: we can learn and take lessons from the past, as it is a treasure trove for all ages, leave alone the sarcastic statement of the former Prime minister of England, Benjamin Disraeli who said: history is the endless repetition of wrong doing. We may repeat mistakes, but, at least, we have the opportunity to avoid them. Contrary to some people's view, the study of history is not stuffing the mind with names, dates, and places. It is a path that has shaped rather will shape the courses of all our lives. The past events would lead us to take lesson based on inference, implied and direct planes. For eg: from Hitler, one can learn how not to be dictatorial, from Gandhi one can learn how to be altruistic, rather be unselfish. Succinctly speaking, history is a teacher for all generations and not a mere record of a catalogue of events. Right from art, down to human greed, everything is available in the name of history. Hence, be inquisitive to take more from the pages of history, will you?
