Panthers or leopards are more cunning than tigers; a tiger is a gentleman when all is said and done—at least that is what Jim Corbett had said. A panther is more likely to enter a village or even a house than a tiger is. He will lie in wait beside a hut for an unsuspecting child to come out, [and] then seize him by the neck. There will be no sound, the child just disappears. A tiger will rarely trouble himself with a child, there is too little in it for him. It is a question of cost-benefit. The energy he will expend in capturing and killing a child provides him with very little food. He would rather kill a buffalo or other hoofed wild game, which provides him with much more food. A tiger weighs 180–230 kilos, while a panther may be around 50 kilos or so. Panthers sometimes take to child lifting even though normal food like dogs, goats and chicken are easily available.

किसी भी देश की प्रगति वैज्ञानिक उपलब्धियों के सहारे किए गए औद्योगिकीकरण पर निर्भर है। यही किसी भी उन्नत देश की कसौटी मानी जाती है। जहाँ पर पूर्ण रूप से औद्योगिकीकरण नहीं हुआ है, वहाँ उसी अनुपात में गरीबी और पिछड़ापन रहता है। विज्ञान ने मानव को पूरी तरह बदल दिया है, उसे भौतिक स्तर पर समुन्नत बनाया है, परन्तु एक सत्य यह भी है कि हमें नाना प्रकार की भौतिक सुविधाएँ देकर उसने हमारी कोमल मानवीय संवेदनाओं को नष्ट कर दिया है। अगर ऐसा ही होता रहा तो क्या हम ईमानदारी से अपने को मानव कह पाएँगे।
